

Film Selection Procedure

LFS films are selected by the 8 member committee which puts together a list of about 30 possible films which fulfil the criteria as specified below.

Each committee member votes for as many films as are required for the session and the films with the most votes are chosen.

The aim is to provide a good cross-section of films for each session in terms of content, genre and nationality.

Obviously it is not possible for the committee members to pre-view all the films, although occasionally some may have been seen. Therefore their judgment relies on reviews done by respected critics which are available through sources such as IMDB, Rotten Tomatoes etc.

Each committee member then prepares an individual review for the Newsreel based on these critics' reviews.

Every film is assessed by the Australian Classification Board which issues the rating and consumer advice e.g. "(M).Coarse language and sex scenes".
